

Brittany Weber, MD

Otolaryngology (ENT)

Dr. Weber is an otolaryngologist who provides patients of all ages with diagnosis and medical and surgical treatment of illnesses and disorders of the ears, nose, and throat. She has special clinical interest in voice disorders.

Dr. Weber received her undergraduate degree at the University of Pittsburgh, graduating summa cum laude. She earned her medical degree at Drexel University College of Medicine in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and was selected into the Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society for her excellence in academic performance, dedication to service, and professionalism. She completed her otolaryngology residency at Eastern Virginia Medical School in Norfolk, receiving an award for excellence in clinical research.

Her research has focused on investigating sudden hearing loss following cardiopulmonary bypass procedures and on identifying the incidence of failed newborn hearing screening from middle ear effusions.
